Couple arrested, jewelry recovered in multiple thefts

BY PATRICIA RILEY AND
FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

Cochrane RCMP officers arrested a man and a woman on the last weekend in August after a rash of break-ins and theft of jewelry at residences in Didsbury, Carstairs and the surrounding area during the summer.

Sgt. Kim Pasloske, commander of the Didsbury RCMP detachment, said police believe the motive was to sell the jewelry for money to support drug habits.

"The investigation showed that the suspects were in possession of a large amount of stolen property," Pasloske said.

The stolen property included mostly jewelry as well as some electronics.

She believes the couple is responsible for a majority of the break and enters in Didsbury and Carstairs over the last couple of months.

"Since they were arrested there has been a significant decrease of break and enters, specifically to residences."

Sgt. Pasloske said break-in victims who have not yet been contacted by police should call RCMP because they may recover items with sentimental value.

Several of the items have been identified from some of the thefts in the area.

Officers are contacting all of the people who reported jewelry thefts in the area over the past couple of months, but Pasloske is asking people who haven't already been contacted to call the detachment at 403-335-3382.

"We've been working our butts off in the last couple weeks to identify if we can return some of this (jewelry) to some of our victims of the break and enters," she said.

Filming for the television show Wynonna Earp underway on 20 Street on Sept. 16.

Wynonna Earp films in down town Didsbury

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

A film crew took over Didsbury's main street Sept. 16 to shoot scenes from the pilot episode of Wynonna Earp, a modern-day supernatural western.

The crew transformed the façade of Ulla La Boutique into the exterior of an establishment called Shorty's Saloon for some of the scenes.

Wynonna Earp is a Canadian production by the SyFy and Sever24 film companies and most of the crew is Albertan, with some from Toronto.

Alberta is busy again with film and television work, following on the heels of recent productions of Hell on Wheels and Fargo.

Fargo Season Two producers also used Didsbury as the setting for one scene in an episode of

Noel West/MVP Staff

Canadian film star Melanie Scrofano between scenes.

Season Two.

The Wynonna Earp script is based on a comic book series featuring a descendant of iconic lawman Wyatt Earp.

The pilot is scheduled for broadcast release in 2016.

Melanie Scrofano (Damien, and RoboCop) is cast as Wynonna and was in Didsbury for the scenes filmed last week.

Tim Rozen (Being Human) will play the part of Doc. Holiday and Shamier Anderson (Defiance) will appear in the supporting role of Agent Dolls.

In the IWD Publishing comic, Wynonna Earp and the Monster Squad fight vampires, mummies and an arch-criminal called Raduk the eater of the dead.

IWD has published three series of Wynonna Earp comic books. The first five issues were released in 1996 and 1997, the three-part Home on the Strange edition appeared in 2003 and 2004, and a four-part Yeti Years series was published in 2011.

"When the Canadian dollar is down, American producers take advantage of the situation and movie work in Alberta goes up," a crewmember told the Review.

"We are happy to have regular work."

City of Calgary Economic Development Authority film, television and creative industries commissioner Luke Azevedo estimates that 80 per cent of filming in Alberta takes place near Calgary and in southern Alberta.

To attract more filming to southern Alberta, the authority is leading the construction of a permanent sound studio and related warehouse, workshops and office space in southeast Calgary.

The $23-million, 8.3-acre development is scheduled to open in 2016 and was developed by a non-profit corporation created by the authority.

100 years of horses, red shoes and music

Bessie Eckstrand poses for a photo while dressed in red at her residence in Carstairs' Chinook Winds Lodge on Sept. 17. She turned 100 years old on Sept. 16.

PATRICIA RILEY AND

To mark 100 years of life in the area, Bessie Eckstrand attended a centenary birthday dinner in Olds with 42 family members representing five generations, and a party for 85 at Chinook Winds Lodge in Carstairs.

Queen Elizabeth II sent her a personal birthday greeting, as did Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

At the Chinook Winds party, Bessie had two dances wearing a pair of red shoes to music played with her daughter Bev Felker at the keyboard.

Wearing a pair of dark ruby high heels and a regal crimson jacket over a red dress the afternoon after her party, Bessie chuckled, "I love red clothes. I have a closet full of red shoes."

"She likes to dress well," said daughter Fern Foat.

Bessie's maiden name was Tittsworth and she grew up on the family farm south of Didsbury.

She had her first riding horse "when I was knee high."

It was the first of many brown-coloured mounts, some quarter horses, others of various breeds.

Later in life, Bessie carried the Olympic torch on horseback for the 1988 Calgary Winter Games, when the torch came through town.

She also loved cats and dogs and had several pets at any one time.

She married farmer Cliff Eckstrand who was five years her senior.

They had two daughters, Beverly and Fern.

Cliff played the banjo and had a band that wore straw boater hats and red vests.

Bessie played the piano.

"Our house was full of music," she recalled.

She contributed the South Didsbury community news column to the Didsbury Review each week for 40 years, often riding on horseback to visit neighbours and gather the news.

She also volunteered at the thrift shop and with the hospital auxiliary.

Bessie and Cliff moved into Didsbury when they retired, giving up the dogs and cats.

Cliff died in 2005 at the age of 92.

She is a great-great-grandmother and members of all five generations came to celebrate her milestone.

"I never imagined I'd live 100 years," mused Bessie.

Girls robbed and assaulted near Didsbury

BY PATRICIA RILEY
MVP Staff

Three suspects are facing several charges after two young girls were robbed and held against their will in the Didsbury rural area on Sept. 11.

"Two females were travelling along (in their vehicle) and ended up being stopped and waved down by the suspects at which point they were bear sprayed," said Airdrie RCMP Const. Jason Curtis.

"They were confined in the vehicle and the vehicle travelled a short distance at which point the suspects released them and not without stealing their wallets, valuables and cellphones," he said.

"Quite a terrible experience for them but thankfully they weren't harmed and they were able to provide excellent statements."

The girls were dropped off on the side of the road and were able to contact police fairly quickly. Didsbury RCMP officers assisted with the investigation.

"We spent significant investigational time investigating in this and assisting those victims," said Didsbury RCMP Sgt. Kimberley Pasloske.

Police allege the suspects were on a crime spree.

The investigation involved several incidents throughout the day and was a joint effort between the Airdrie, Didsbury and Gleichen RCMP detachments.

Earlier that day, Airdrie RCMP received a complaint of a stolen vehicle at the Esso in Crossfield. The owner of the vehicle was inside the gas station paying for gas when he saw multiple suspects steal his vehicle.

The vehicle was located in a rural area about two hours later along with another vehicle that had been stolen from Strathmore.

Shortly after that is when the police were contacted by the two young girls who had been robbed and assaulted.

The description of the suspects they provided matched the description of the suspects who stole the vehicle in Crossfield, say police.

Officers were then alerted to a theft from a liquor store in Sylvan Lake with a matching description of the same suspects.

Gleichen RCMP officers were later called to a single vehicle collision. The vehicle involved was one of the stolen vehicles, but the suspects were no longer at the scene.

Officers ended up finding and arresting three suspects, and through further investigation, they were also alleged to have been involved in an armed robbery in Gleichen at 4 a.m. that morning.

Ranell Mary Lee Calf, 20, of Red Deer, Lyle Brennan Yellowfly, 19, of Siksiika Nation and Lindros Brett Cutter, 20, of Siksiika Nation are all facing several charges related to forcible confinement, robbery with a weapon, theft of vehicles and possession of weapons for dangerous purposes.

Bikers for Christ share prayer, Bible study, ministry

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

On Friday evenings, downtown Didsbury empties out as stores, offices and coffee shops close.

By 7 p.m., 20th Street is almost free of pedestrians and few vehicles pass through the town's main thoroughfare.

However, at 2006 20th St. a small group of gleaming, well-cared-for Harley-Davidsons are neatly parked side by side.

Behind papered-over windows in a storefront next door to the H&R Block office, half a dozen bearded, tattooed men wearing leather, silver rings and biker colours have gathered for the last thing you'd expect in a bikers' clubhouse.

A Bible study. The men are members of the Mountain View chapter of Bikers for Christ.

Didsbury is a biker's town.

"God, family and motorcycles in that order."

BIKER BOB LEMESURIER

It has two gangs and two clubhouses - the Lost Soldiers whose members are military veterans, and the Bikers for Christ whose members are "poster boys for God's forgiveness," said their chaplain Biker Bob Lemesurier.

Many local motorcyclists also participate in the annual Ride for Dad in June to raise money for prostate cancer.

The Bikers for Christ blend evangelical Christianity with biker gang values of loyalty, brotherhood and separation from mainstream society.

"We love bikes," he said.

"God, family and motorcycles in that order."

One member has the Bikers for Christ credo painted on his bike:

"Some wish to live within the sound of chapel bells. We wish to run a rescue shop in the yard of hell."

Biker Bob was 40 years old, ex-military and lived in a shack.

"I had nothing." Nothing except an artificial heart valve, a military prison record and a love of motorcycles.

"Then I found Christ."

"By the grace of God my life turned around and God put an income, a wife, two children and a brotherhood in my path."

Biker Bob's brothers are never far from wheels.

Their day jobs are in fields like trucking, heavy equipment, oilfield operations and vehicle maintenance.

And they are family men who live a devout life of prayer, Bible study and ministry that often begins with volunteer community service.

Their lives are opposite to the stereotype of lawless bike gangs dealing in drugs, strippers and other criminal enterprises.

The Mountain View Bikers for Christ engage in community service and quiet acts of charity that are carried out with an agenda of always looking for an opportunity, if it comes, to speak of Christ to their neighbours.

"We take care of our neighbours."

"And we are (Christian) seed planters," said Bob.

Bikers for Christ is a North American biker network with chapters across Canada, including Didsbury and Fort McMurray in Alberta.

"We might have their jewelry and we can return it to them," she said.

"I'm extremely pleased to be going back to all our complainants and saying, 'I think we might have your jewelry, take a look'."

"None of the jewelry that we seized was expensive jewelry, that was sold off right away."

The jewelry seized by the RCMP includes charm bracelets and pieces that are meaningful to the owners but aren't necessarily worth a lot of money, she said.

Pasloske said the man and woman arrested by police are currently being held in custody.

"We are working with Cochrane RCMP to identify additional charges that we can place on these people," she said.

The arrest was made following a tip from a member of the public reporting suspicious people in the Cochrane area.

"This is why we're out in the media to ask people to report suspicious persons," she said.

No further details on the two suspects will be released until charges are laid, she said.

Colts start season on winning streak

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

Two weekend victories by the Mountainview Colts, as they beat Banff 6-3 and Medicine Hat 5-3, got the team's North Division Heritage Junior B season off to a winning start.

Two consecutive goals by last year's Colts Heart and Hustle award winner Cole Sutherland started the season Friday night as the Colts went on to beat Banff Academy 6 to 3.

Anderson, this year's team captain, got a hat trick for the night when he scored again in the second period.

He also scored another goal in Medicine Hat.

The Colts had the physical edge over Banff all night and performed well technically for the first game of the new season, showing a great deal of promise for perfecting the crispness of their passing and checking in future games.

Junior B players are 17 to 21 years old, and four members of last year's Colts team have graduated and two players who were attending Olds College have moved on.

However, the younger players moving up are filling the gaps.

The Medicine Hat victory was the team's first road game for the 2015-16 season and the Colts finished the weekend atop the North Division.

On the weekend, Colton Anderson scored three goals and assisted twice and Tyson Schmidt got two goals and three assists, so the two players lead the team scoring with five points.

Sutherland's goal scoring has him ranked second with four points.

Nicolas Miluch and Austin Petersen got three assists for three points.

Clinton Armitage scored one goal and one assist. Dennis Lawrence and Mitchell Visser had two assists each.

Benjamin Strautman scored a goal and Chad Gross made an assist to round out the weekend scoring for the Colts.

Last season the Colts finished third in the division with 48 points in 38 games and won the first two playoff rounds but were eliminated from the North Division Finals by Blackfalds.

The North Division includes teams from Red Deer, Blackfalds, Stettler, Three Hills, Ponoka, Airdrie and Didsbury.

Dragons smother Strathmore Badgers 74-0

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

On a perfect autumn day for football on Sept. 19, the Didsbury Dragons dominated the visiting Strathmore Badgers in a 74-0 victory to open their Mountain View 9-Man Football Conference season.

Playing with a roster of only 12 men against Strathmore's 25 players and outweighed man to man, Didsbury's veteran team held the Badgers offence to net negative yardage for the game, including a handful of quarterback sacks.

David Aebersold's two-way play led the Dragons.

He scored four touchdowns and two converts for 30 points and one interception plus several punishing tackles.

Second string quarterback Karson Dassault played slightly more than half the game, and punched above his diminutive weight.

The Dragons defence repeatedly penetrated Strathmore's offensive line to tackle runners for big yardage losses and picked off two interceptions and recovered two fumbles.

The Badgers' offensive pattern became first and 10, second and 20, third and 30.

The Badgers came into the game betting their size advantage against Didsbury's comparatively smaller players.

The Dragons tackled crisply, blocked aggressively and learned from their mistakes quickly.

Frank Dabbs/MVP Staff

Didsbury Dragons star David Aebersold scores against the Strathmore Badgers Sept. 19 on a pass and run play. Aebersold scored four touchdowns and three converts for 30 of Didsbury's 74 points.

The team has racked up 135 points while allowing none in two games, including a 61-0 exhibition trouncing of the Carstairs Tigers Sept. 12.

That score was incorrectly reported in the Sept. 15 Didsbury Review as 50-0.

In addition to Aebersold's 30-point day, the Dragons' scoring game came from brothers Jonas and Nils Haeni with two majors each, and Delva DeBruyn who scored one touchdown.

Joshua Wood and Logan Vissar scored two-point converts.

The Dragons play the Innisfail Cyclones at Didsbury High School on Sept. 26 at 1 p.m.

Opinion

Commentary

What did Canadians get for $1 trillion?

It's only $10 billion.

That's the line coming from several economists, as well as from Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau, when they argue that a deficit of that size is really no big deal. It works out to a measly three per cent of our $300 billion federal budget. Seems like a small price to pay to "get the economy moving," doesn't it?

If only it were that simple. If such a deficit is an "insignificant" size relative to the federal budget, it's an even more insignificant sum as part of our much larger overall economy. It's simply not going to make much of a difference in how our economy performs.

Secondly, it's not just $10 billion this year. It's another $10 billion the year after. And if history is any indication "small, temporary" deficits have an unfortunately common habit of turning into "large, permanent" ones. Indeed, between 1971 and 1997, Canada ran deficits — in most cases, in the tens of billions — every single year.

And then there is the debt.

Contrary to what many assume, simply balancing the budget in a single year isn't the end of the story. There's still the leftover pile of deficits from previous years to pay off. With interest. Lots of it.

We can thank our lucky stars that interest rates are low these days. Although even with these low rates, the federal government spent $26 billion on interest payments last year. But what's truly mind-boggling is when you start adding up the interest payments over time.

Since 1990, the interest payments on Canada's federal debt has cost taxpayers more than one trillion dollars.

Not one million. Not one billion. A trillion; one thousand billion. That's a "1" with 12 zeroes after it.

What, precisely, did we get in return for this trillion dollars? After all, it can't be infrastructure: that's precisely the thing Trudeau and others insist we now need more money to build. Jobs? But we're also told we need to borrow more now to "create jobs." And then of course there's all the programs and services that the pro-deficits crowd insists are chronically underfunded. We need to borrow to fund those too!

The sad irony is that a trillion dollars would be more than enough to fund the dreams of even the most spendthrift politician — with plenty left over for tax relief. But we can't put that money towards the needs and interests of Canadians today, because we're still burdened by the consequences of decades of reckless government borrowing. In effect, we are still suffering from a 40-plus-year hangover that just won't go away, and that today's politicians have no plan to try and remedy.

All of this needs to be borne in mind when politicians try to convince you that their "small, temporary" deficits are the cure to all that ails us. Because it is precisely the kind of thinking that has ended up costing Canadian taxpayers a trillion dollars in interest payments in the last quarter century.

So no, sorry, it's not only $10 billion.

Aaron Wudrick is the federal director of the Canadian Taxpayers Federation.

Why bother with fence post candidates?

BY FRANK DABBS

They are one political life form below parachute candidates and one life form just above political pond scum like the candidates thrown off the boat because of past social media gaffes.

They are just names for campaign signs that can be hammered to a fence post.

Simon Olney lives in St. Albert, is running in Red Deer-Mountain View for the Green Party because its prospective candidate, Red Deer County engineer Evan Bedford, jumped to the NDP.

Olney, to his credit, has established a faint profile in the riding and has the opportunity to do more before election day.

He is one of the better class of fence post candidates. In its darkest years, many federal Liberals ran as fence posts in Alberta because the party of Pierre Trudeau insisted on a full slate of candidates across the country but had to beg people to be sacrificial lambs in this province.

They lost their deposits.

That is to say, they did not garner sufficient votes to be eligible to recover the registration fee that Elections Canada charged to nominees to have their names included on the ballot.

They were never rewarded for their efforts, not even appointed to the Senate.

Red Deer Mountain View Libertarian candidate James Walper is invisible.

His party lists no email address or contact information for him, and he does not pop up on an Internet search.

He may not even have the campaign signs needed to be admitted to the inner circle of fence posts.

I can offer no proof that he exists, except the word of his party and the due diligence of Elections Canada. Why do Olney and Walper "campaign" the way they do?

Candidates who don't cast a shadow in the riding are disdaining the wisdom of the voters.

I get the point.

The party is more important than the people.

I think Stalin said that.

Never forget that when you cast your ballot.

Get kids safely to school and back

BY SIMON DUCATEL

It's that time of year — the days are getting shorter and cooler, the leaves are turning colour, and students have returned to school.

School zones, which have a speed limit of 30 kilometres per hour, are back in effect during school days. Motorists have likely gotten used to driving past the local schools going upwards of 50 kilometres per hour over the summer, so it can't hurt to remind residents that it's time to slow down again.

There's never an excuse to speed through school zones — or playground zones, which are in effect year-round.

No one could reasonably argue that saving a few seconds is worth risking a student's well-being.

Besides, if motorists are in such a rush to get somewhere in the morning that they'd be willing to justify speeding — even if only marginally — through a clearly marked school zone, it's a clear indication that they need to wake up a few minutes earlier to ensure they have the time to reach their destination without putting lives at risk. If students are able to be awake and ready to arrive at school shortly after 8 a.m., adults shouldn't have any excuse.

So now that students are back in school, let's all make sure they get to and from class safe and sound.

ANDERSON, Linda Anne (nee Hosegood)
March 2, 1935 - September 16, 2015
Today we lost a mother, mother-in-law, grandmother, sister and friend after a long and courageous battle with cancer.
Linda was born in Didsbury, Alberta to Harvey and Dorothy Hosegood (Sissons). She grew up on a farm in the Elkton / Rugby District, attended Didsbury High School, then Mount Royal College. She married James R. Anderson in 1956. She was a long-time member of the Bow Valley Chapter No. 5 Order of the Eastern Star and a member of Daughters of The Nile. Her most favorite place was Heritage Park where she volunteered for many years.
She is survived by her son Kevin Anderson; her daughter and son-in-law Karen and David Cuthbertson; her two grandsons Robb and William; her sister Lillian Sinclair; her sister-in-laws Eileen Anderson, Fern Anderson and Elma Anderson (Bob). Linda was predeceased by her husband Jim in 1990; her parents Harvey and Dorothy; her sister Mary-Lou; her brother-in-laws John and Richard Anderson.
A Celebration of life will be held at McINNIS & HOLLOWAY (Park Memorial, 5008 Elbow Drive S.W. Calgary, AB) on Monday, September 21, 2015 at 2:00 p.m. interment at Didsbury Cemetery at a later date. Condolences may be forwarded through www.mcinnisandholloway.com. Thank you to the volunteer cancer drivers, Dr. Rutherford and medical team at Tom Baker Cancer Centre. Special thanks to Dr's. Sutton, Chappel, Lundgren, VanEssen, and their staff, Lizette and the Palliative Care Team and Southwood Hospice for their care and compassion.
In living memory of Linda Anderson, a tree will be planted at Fish Creek Provincial Park by McINNIS & HOLLOWAY FUNERAL HOMES, Park Memorial, 5008 ELBOW DRIVE S.W. Calgary, AB, T2S 2L5, Telephone: 1-800-661-1599.

SNYDER
Shirley Louise Snyder passed away on September 15, 2015 in the Olds Hospital at the age of 79 after a brave battle with cancer. Shirley was born on February 13, 1936 in Innisfail, Alberta, the second daughter of Marvel (nee Davis) and Richard Sullivan. Along with her two sisters and one brother she was raised in Sunnyslope east of Didsbury. In September of 1955 she married Ira Roberts, and they spent most of their married life happily together in the Olds & Didsbury area with the exception of a short stint in Medicine Hat around 1960. They were blessed with five children, four boys and one girl; Lynn (Cindy), Lyle (Lorie), Penny (Geoff) Richardson, Perry (Dona David), Bryon (Patty). She was predeceased by Ira in May of 2001. Shirley was fortunate to find love again, and married Charlie Snyder in May 2005. Shirley embraced Charlie's children and grandchildren as her own and was happy to increase the size of her family. Shirley and Charlie resided in Didsbury until his passing in May of 2011. Shirley moved back to Olds in 2012 where she resided until her passing. All her life Shirley was an incredibly hard worker, working at many jobs; from running the café at the Auction Mart to working in the kitchen at the college. She also loved to garden and canned everything in sight! But most important to her was her large extended family - from her siblings and all of their families to the Davis clan, the Roberts clan, and then the Snyder clan as well. Shirley was predeceased by her older sister Jean Gooding; and leaves to mourn her loving sister Nel Freeman and brother Victor Sullivan, as well as both her children, Charlie's children and their families. Funeral services were held at the Zion Church in Didsbury on Monday September 21, 2015. Memorial tributes may be made directly to the Olds & District Hospice Society or Alberta Cancer Foundation.
